SHORT FILM SCREENING

The Shootout 24 Hour Filmmaking Festival

This is filmmaking as an extreme sport. The Shoot Out challenges you to make a film in 24 hours that's less than 7 minutes long with only in camera editing. Australia's most exciting and innovative film festival is touring to Canberra, so come and see how it's done and just how much fun you can have in 24 hrs. First prize for the Shootout Newcastle is a $14,000 industry package (incl $4,000 cash). The Shoot Out Newcastle 2004 is on 9th - 11th July

The Canberra Information sessions and Screenings of the 2003 top ten are:

Tuesday 25th May 1-3pm - Australian National University – Manning Clarke Centre Theatre 4

Wednesday 26th May 7-9pm - University of Canberra – Building 9 room 9A1

CALLING FOR SHORT FILMS

short::seasons winter'004

Submissions close: Friday July 16th short::seasons is calling for short films made by people from the Canberra region for the winter festival. This festival is an exhibition of the best locally produced content around and it is not competitive. Submitting your film for consideration is free, just download an entry form from the website: www.shortseasons.com.au

SHORT FILM FUNDING

short::seasons Project Film Funding

short::seasons and the University of Canberra's UCU Film Production Society are offering a lucky Canberran a little bit of cash, use of some equipment and a whole lotta support to make their short film idea a reality. They are looking for a great idea and/or script for a 10 minute short film to be premiered at the short::seasons winter'004 film festival. For more information on how to apply: www.shortseasons.com.au/projectfims.html

WORKSHOP: MARKETING YOUR SHORT FILM

Presented by the AFC, Monday 31 May, 10am-3pm

The Australian Film Commission is coming to Canberra to present a free marketing short films seminar on: distribution options; clearing rights & contractual issues; the festival circuit; using websites to design your festival/marketing strategy; and festival selection – what it means and what you need to survive.

Speakers include: Bronwyn Kidd, Flickerfest Festival Director; Ant Horn from the Arts Law Centre; filmmakers talking about their festival experiences; and AFC marketing representatives.

A number of Australian short films recently screened in international festivals will also be shown.

ScreenSound Australia McCoy Circuit, Acton

RSVP Essential, Places are limited.

LOOKING FOR VOLUNTEERS

The Canberra Short Film Festival

The CSFF is looking for people keen to help out. There are a number of jobs that need doing – some big, some small, so if you're interested, please drop them an email: canberrashort@iinet.net.au and let them know what you are available to do. The festival will be held in late October.

Cheers,

Marisa Martin
